

DAC 0521 MET-M Writeup

Function - It is a procedure whose definition includes identifiers of its arguments known as parameters. In a high-level language the call to function can appear within an expression and when this expression is evaluated that function is invoked and its call is replaced by the result of invocation.